Lily Shen Interviewed On Public.Com; Thoughts On The Future Of Our Business
December 14, 2021

The conversation with Public.com's Kori Hale took place on the heels of Transfix's announcement in September that it has entered into a definitive business combination agreement with G Squared Ascend I Inc. (NYSE: GSQD), which is expected to result in Transfix becoming a publicly listed company. In addition to the deal, Shen shares her outlook on the current supply chain crisis and how Transfix is positioned to help solve some of the biggest issues plaguing the industry, today and in the future.

"We're building a technology platform which automates the ways in which we connect and match freight from some of the brands we all love most to carriers around the country in real-time," Shen said. "Our technology presents a huge opportunity for the industry which is incredibly fragmented and complex, with archaic, disparate systems."

The Transfix platform — which is designed to help customers achieve greater resiliency, reliability of capacity, and flexibility — is world-class technology combined with a human-centric approach. Our industry experience enables us to build great tech, but we also understand the importance of the human touch. We believe that bringing all these pieces together will drive better efficiency, superior experiences, and provide value to the larger ecosystem.

In her discussion with Hale, Shen spoke about the importance of a team with "deep industry experience, strong technology experience, and solid process-improvement experience. That's how we've delivered a very strong model and a superior solution for the shippers, carriers, and drivers that we serve," she said. "We are all here because we want to deliver smarter, simpler, sustainable solutions for our shippers and carriers, powered by technology and our team."

In addition to enabling shippers to source capacity in more efficient and effective ways, Transfix aims to improve the lives of carriers and drivers by addressing some of the industry's most pressing needs — including the driver shortage. The Transfix platform is designed to help carriers build, grow, and scale their business — and, at the same time, retain their drivers.

"I joined Transfix to help revolutionize the movement of freight and to help modernize the entire ecosystem," Shen says. "We're in a day and age where technology has radically transformed so many industries and lives, making things simpler, smarter, and more sustainable. Think about how personal investing has changed, how communication has changed, and just think about all the platforms we use today that didn't even exist 10 years ago. The transportation sector is one of the biggest and most important sectors to our entire economy and our day-to-day lives. The importance of human-centered and technology-enabled freight has really come into the spotlight, and we're all experiencing it in real-time."

Transfix plans to continue growing strategically, evolving its platform and offerings to serve the evolving needs of its shipper and carrier partners.
